I am a happy traveler catching up on adventures I could never do before. Travel brings all my favorite things together with fun, food, new cultures, history, photography and friends. I've had many jobs in my past and fancy myself to be a female Anthony Bourdain, rest his soul. The common thread in work was customer service and I worked in multiple roles in the US military in a few different services over 37 years, with only 9 of them being active duty. Being a Veteran created a family of sorts for me along with my love of dogs; no kids, just furbabies. I am a huge nature lover, all plants and animals and am well versed in horticulture too. I like music a lot, lean towards Rock and variations of that. I'm pretty independent but like being part of a team too. I am loving being retired with my time being my own now.
